Prentice Hall Reference Guide Deforestation Image:

Image Databases Vittorio Castelli, Lawrence D. Bergman, 2004-03-24 The explosive growth of multimedia data transmission has generated a critical need for efficient high capacity image databases as well as powerful search engines to retrieve image data from them This book brings together contributions by an international all star team of innovators in the field who share their insights into all key aspects of image database and search engine construction Readers get in depth discussions of the entire range of crucial image database architecture indexing and retrieval transmission display and user interface issues And using examples from an array of disciplines the authors present cutting edge applications in medical imagery multimedia communications earth science remote sensing and other major application areas

GIS Methodologies for Developing Conservation Strategies Basil G. Savitsky, Thomas E. Lacher, Jr., 1998-04-28 Tropical habitats may contain more than a third of the world's plant and animal species Costa Rica alone is home to one of the highest levels of biodiversity per unit area in the world and stands at center stage in worldwide conservation efforts Within such regions the use of state of the art digital mapping technologies sophisticated techniques that are relatively inexpensive and accessible represents the future of conservation planning and policy These methods which employ satellites to obtain visual data on landscapes allow environmental scientists to monitor encroachment on indigenous territories trace park boundaries through unmarked wilderness and identify wildlife habitats in regions where humans have limited access Focusing on the rich biodiversity of Costa Rica the contributors demonstrate the use of geographic information systems GIS to enhance conservation efforts They give an overview of the spatial nature of conservation and management and the current status of digital mapping in Costa Rica a review of the basic principles behind digital mapping technologies a series of case studies using these technologies at a variety of scales and for a range of conservation and management activities and the results of the Costa Rican gap analysis project GIS Methodologies for Developing Conservation Strategies provides powerful tools for those involved in decision making about the natural environment particularly in developing nations like Costa Rica where such technologies have not yet been widely adopted For specialists in such areas as geography conservation biology and wildlife and natural resource management the combination of conceptual background and case examples make the book a crucial addition to the literature

Environmental Anthropology Today Helen Kopnina, Eleanor Shoreman-Ouimet, 2011-08-05 This collection offers a wide ranging consideration of the field which illustrates how environmental anthropology can increase our understanding and help find solutions to environmental problems

Deforestation Around the World Paulo Moutinho, 2012-03-30 Deforestation and forest degradation represent a significant fraction of the annual worldwide human induced emission of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere the main source of biodiversity losses and the destruction of millions of people's homes Despite local regional causes its consequences are global This book provides a general view about deforestation dynamics around the world incorporating analyses of its causes impacts and actions to prevent it Its 17 Chapters organized in three sections refer to deforestation impacts on climate soil biodiversity and human population but also describe several initiatives to prevent it A special emphasis is given to different remote sensing and mapping techniques that could be used as a source for decision makers and society to promote forest conservation and control deforestation GLOBE Program Teacher's Guide ,1996

Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates,Judith Tucker,2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conservation outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fast growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field Land-use Change in the Northwestern Uplands of Vietnam Manh-Cuong Pham,2005 The GLOBE Program Teacher's Guide ,1996 Reforesting Landscapes Harini Nagendra,Jane Southworth,2009-12-02 The 21st century has seen the beginnings of a great restoration effort towards the world's forests accompanied by the emergence of an increasing literature on reforestation regeneration and regrowth of forest cover Yet to date there is no volume which synthesises current knowledge on the extent trends patterns and drivers of reforestation This edited volume draws together research from leading researchers to explore reforestation and forest regrowth across the world from multiple dimensions including ecosystem services protected areas social institutions economic transitions remediation of environmental problems conservation and land abandonment and at different scales Detailing the methods and analyses used from across a wide range of disciplines and incorporating research from North South and Central America Africa Asia and Europe this groundbreaking book provides a global overview of current trends explores their underlying causes and proposes future forest trajectories The first of its kind the book will provide an invaluable reference for researchers and students involved in interdisciplinary research and working on issues relevant to the biophysical geographic socioeconomic and institutional processes associated with reforestation Mountain Landscapes in Transition Udo Schickhoff,R.B. Singh,Suraj Mal,2021-11-02 This book compiles available knowledge of the response of mountain ecosystems to recent climate and land use change and intends to bridge the gap between science policy and the community concerned

The chapters present key concepts major drivers and key processes of mountain response providing transdisciplinary orientation to mountain studies incorporating experiences of academics community leaders and policy makers from developed and less developed countries The book chapters are arranged in two sections The first section concerns the response processes of mountain environments to climate change This section addresses climate change itself past current and future changes of temperature and precipitation and its impacts on the cryosphere hydrosphere biosphere and human environment systems The second section focuses on the response processes of mountain environments to land use land cover change The case studies address effects of changing agriculture and pastoralism forest water resources management and urbanization processes landscape management and biodiversity conservation The book is designed as an interdisciplinary publication which critically evaluates developments in mountains of the world with contributions from both social and natural sciences
