Searching for Sustainability Bryan G. Norton, 2003 This book examines from a multidisciplinary viewpoint the question of what we mean what we should mean by setting sustainability as a goal for environmental management The author trained as a philosopher of science and language explores ways to break down the disciplinary barriers to communication and deliberation about environment policy and to integrate science and evaluations into a more comprehensive environmental policy Choosing sustainability as the keystone concept of environmental policy the author explores what we can learn about sustainable living from the philosophy of pragmatism from ecology from economics from planning from conservation biology and from related disciplines The idea of adaptive or experimental management provides the context while insights from various disciplines are integrated into a comprehensive philosophy of environmental management The book will appeal to students and professionals in the fields of environmental policy and ethics conservation biology and philosophy of science

Quiet Activism Wendy Steele, Jean Hillier, Diana MacCallum, Jason Byrne, Donna Houston, 2021-08-10 This book focuses on the potential and possibilities for socially innovative responses to the climate emergency at the local scale Climate change has intensified the need for communities to find creative and meaningful ways to address the sustainability of their environments The authors focus on the creative and collaborative ways local scale climate action reflects the extra ordinary measures taken by ordinary people This includes critical engagement with the ways in which novel social practices and partnerships emerge between people organisations institutions governance arrangements and eco systems The book successfully highlights the transformative power of socially innovative activities and initiatives in response to the climate crisis and critically explores how different individuals and groups undertake climate action as quiet activism the embodied acts of collective disruption subversion creativity and care at the local scale

Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn, Sarah Pickard, 2023-02-02 Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people s support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives Biz-War and the Out-of-Power Elite Jarol B. Manheim,2004-04-26 The book captures in just a few pages one of the least known but most important political trends of the last quarter century the rebuilding of the American political Left through the reverse engineering of the power structure the use of attacks on co Radical Environmentalism J.
