

Army Values

Loyalty. Bear true faith and allegiance to the U.S. Constitution, the Army, your unit and other Soldiers. Bearing true faith and allegiance is a matter of believing in and devoting yourself to something or someone. A loyal Soldier is one who supports the leadership and stands up for fellow Soldiers, for wearing the uniform of the U.S. Army you are expressing your loyalty. And by doing your share, you show your loyalty to your team.

Duty. Fulfill your obligations. Doing your duty means more than carrying out your assigned tasks. Duty means being able to count on you as part of a team. The work of the U.S. Army is a complex combination of individual tasks and responsibilities - all in constant motion. Our work is never finished and never done. You fulfill your obligations as a part of your duty. Every time you make the commitment to take "shortcuts" that might undermine the integrity of the final product.

Respect. Treat people as they should be treated. In the Soldier's Code, we pledge to "treat others with dignity and respect while expecting others to do the same." Respect is what others do to appreciate the best in others. People respect is realizing that all people have their own jobs and fulfilled their duty. And, all respect is a vital ingredient with the Army value of respect, which results from knowing you have and earn your best effort. The Army is one team and each of us has something to contribute.

Selfless Service. Put the welfare of the nation, the Army and your subordinates before your own. Selfless service is all larger than just one person or unit in your country; you are doing your duty locally to show the right of citizenship in your. The basic building block of selfless service is the commitment of each team member. So for a little further, evaluate a little longer, and look a little closer. And you will see how you add to the effort.

Honor. Live up to Army values. The highest military award is The Medal of Honor. This award goes to Soldiers who truly honor a matter of daily living - Soldiers who display the spirit of being honorable, and embody that habit with every value choice they make. Honor is a matter of carrying out, acting, and living the values of respect, duty, loyalty, selfless service, integrity and personal courage in everything you do.

Integrity. Do what's right, legally and morally. Integrity is a quality you develop by adhering to moral principles. It requires that you do and say nothing that deceives others. As your integrity grows, so does the trust others place in you. The more choices you make based on integrity, the more this highly prized value will affect your relationships with family and friends, and, finally, the fundamental acceptance of yourself.

Personal Courage. Live free, danger or adversity (physical or moral). Personal courage has long been associated with our Army. With physical courage, it is a matter of enduring physical stress and injuries risking personal safety. Facing moral fear or adversity may be a long, slow process of continuing forward on the right path, especially if taking those actions is not popular with others. You can build your personal courage by daily standing up for and acting upon the things that you know are honorable.
