Art History and Education Stephen Addiss, Mary Erickson, 1993 Guided by Stephen Addiss s grounding in art history scholarship and Mary Erickson s expertise in art education theory and practice this volume approaches the issue of teaching art history from theoretical and philosophical as well as practical and political standpoints In the first section Addiss raises issues about the discipline of art history In the second Erickson examines proposals about how art history can be incorporated into the general education of children and offers some curriculum guides and lesson plans for art educators

Learning Among Neanderthals and Palaeolithic Modern Humans Yoshihiro Nishiaki, Olaf Jöris, 2019-11-27 This book is based on the research performed for the Replacement of Neanderthals by Modern Humans Project The central issue of the project is the investigation of possible differences between the two populations in cognitive ability for learning The project aims to evaluate a unique working hypothesis coined as the learning hypothesis which postulates that differences in learning eventually resulted in the replacement of those populations The book deals with relevant archaeological records to understand the learning behaviours of Neanderthals and modern humans Learning behaviours are conditioned by numerous factors including not only cognitive ability but also cultural traditions social structure population size and life history The book addresses the issues in two parts comparing learning behaviours in terms of cognitive ability and social environments respectively Collectively it provides new insights into the behavioural characteristics of Neanderthals and modern humans from a previously overlooked perspective Furthermore it highlights the significance of understanding learning in prehistory the driving force for any development of culture and technology among human society

Learning Strategies and Cultural Evolution during the Palaeolithic Alex Mesoudi, Kenichi Aoki, 2015-04-30 This volume is motivated by the desire to explain why Neanderthals were replaced by modern humans in terms of cultural differences between the two sub species It provides up to date coverage on the theory of cultural evolution as is being used by anthropologists archaeologists biologists and psychologists to decipher hominin cultural change and diversity during the Palaeolithic The contributing authors are directly involved in this effort and the material presented includes novel approaches and findings Chapters explain how learning strategies in combination with social and demographic factors e g population size and mobility patterns predict cultural evolution in a world without the printing press television or the Internet Also addressed is the inverse problem of how learning strategies may be inferred from actual trajectories of cultural change for example as seen in the North American Palaeolithic Mathematics and statistics a sometimes necessary part of theory are explained in elementary terms where they appear with details relegated to appendices Full citations of the relevant literature will help the reader to further pursue any topic of interest

Dynamics of Learning in Neanderthals and Modern Humans Volume 1 Takeru

Akazawa,Yoshihiro Nishiaki,Kenichi Aoki,2013-12-16 This volume presents the first of two proceedings from the International Conference on the Replacement of Neanderthals by Modern Humans which took place in Tokyo in November 2012 Focussing on a highly innovative working hypothesis called the learning hypothesis which attempts to explain the replacement as a result of differences in the learning abilities of these two hominid populations the conference served as the latest multidisciplinary discussion forum on this intriguing Palaeoanthropological issue The present volume reports on outcomes of the conference in three major sections Part 1 provides an archaeological overview of the processes of replacement assimilation of Neanderthals by modern humans Part 2 consists of archaeological and ethnographic case studies exploring evidence of learning behaviours in prehistoric and modern hunter gatherer societies Part 3 presents a collection of papers that directly contributes to the definition validation and testing of the learning hypothesis in terms of population biology and evolutionary theory A total of 18 papers in this volume make available to readers unique cultural perspectives on mechanisms of the replacement assimilation of Neanderthals by modern humans and suggested relationships between these mechanisms and different learning strategies

Wehlburg, 2023-07-03 It takes courage to engage in the kind of deep transformational learning that so many people need in their lives and this book is designed to help find and nurture that courage in learners including those that are engaged in facilitating the courageous learning of others Inspired by Parker Palmer's classic book The Courage to Teach the authors have carefully examined the learning side of the teaching and learning relationship and this book shares the resulting wealth of knowledge and experience with readers This book is informed by Palmer's observation that the conversations in teaching can be organized around four questions what how why and who In this book the authors center learning instead of teaching as they ask What is the content of learning How do we learn Why is it necessary what motivates us And who is the self that learns The authors have engaged in conversation with adult learners across the lifespan representing different ages social economic levels and approaches to learning Drawing on these discussions their own experiences and the scholarly literature they weave a tapestry with threads of learning and teaching story and analysis that serve as warp and weft The authors pay tribute to the learner's journey in the fullness of the process and name the distinct forms of courage that learning takes In the concluding chapter the authors explore the implications for educational practice and offer guidance for any educator wishing to bring a Courage to Learn conversation to their community
