or more languages which deal with the same topic but are not translations of one another This work had two primary objectives The first is to assess the input of lexicons extracted from comparable corpora in the context of a specialized human translation task The second objective is to identify bilingual lexicon extraction methods which best match the translators needs determining the current limits of these techniques and suggesting improvements The author focuses in particular on the identification of fertile translations the management of multiple morphological structures and the ranking of candidate translations The experiments are carried out on two language pairs English French and English German and on specialized texts dealing with breast cancer This research puts significant emphasis on applicability methodological choices are guided by the needs of the final users This book is organized in two parts the first part presents the applicative and scientific context of the research and the second part is given over to efforts to improve compositional translation The research work presented in this book received the PhD Thesis award 2014 from the French association for natural language processing
