Retiring Out Of The Box:

Creative Nonfiction in Sport and Exercise Research Francesca Cavallerio, 2021-11-18 Academics around the world recognise the effectiveness of storytelling as a way to engage audiences in conversations raising awareness of issues and encouraging change. Stories are now seen as the best medium to convey information to diverse audiences. This book explores a novel approach to representing research findings through the adoption of creative nonfictional stories (CNF). At a time when dissemination of scientific research is constantly highlighted as a fundamental aspect for academics, CNF represents an opportunity to effectively communicate science to non-academic audiences through stories. By providing practical examples of how to transform findings into compelling stories rooted in data, following the mantra of showing rather than telling, which characterises CNF, Creative Nonfiction in Sport and Exercise Research helps researchers, qualitative, quantitative, established professors and students to turn their research into stories. A unique contribution to the field, this book is the first in the sport and exercise research field to take scholars on a discovery journey moving from their classic realist to a more creative, compelling but still rigorous representation of research findings. The book features chapters written by authors from different sport research backgrounds who present the findings of a previously published classic study rewritten in the form of a story. Reflective chapters focusing on the how to and the challenges of this creative analytical practice complete the work to support scholars in developing their creative skills.

Creative Aging Marjory Zoet Bankson, 2010. Discover Your Unique Gift. Creative aging is a choice. If we remember that transition always begins with endings, moves on to a wilderness period of testing and trying, and only then do we reach the beginning of something new, then we can embrace this encore period of life with hope and curiosity, remembering always that it is our true nature to be creative, to be always birthing new ways of sharing our planet together. From the Epilogue. In a practical and useful way, Marjory Zoet Bankson explores the spiritual dimensions of retirement and aging. She offers creative ways for you to share your gifts and experience, particularly when retirement leaves you questioning who you are when you are no longer defined by your career. Drawing on stories of people who have reinvented their lives in their older years, Bankson explores the issues you need to address as you move into this generative period of life. Release. Letting go of the vocational identity associated with your career or primary work. Resistance. Feeling stuck, stagnant, resisting change. Reclaiming. Drawing energy from the past, discovering unused gifts. Revelation. Forming a new vision of the future. Crossing Point. Moving from stagnation to generativity. Risk. Stepping out into the world with new hope. Relating. Finding or creating new structures for a new kind of work.
