Richard Serra Drawing A Retrospective Menil Collection:

Richard Serra, Drawing, 2011 Contemporary Approaches to Commemorative Public Art Brenda

Schmahmann, 2025-06-12 In this collection a diverse range of international contributors examine commemorative monuments from the late twentieth and twenty first centuries The book reveals how those monuments enable new perspectives and understanding of histories as well as a heightened involvement of viewers through not simply their subject matter but also most crucially their actual form and design While some contributors explore new approaches to the art of commemoration that artists and designers have deployed in recent monuments others examine how artists have undertaken creative engagements with historical statuary and sites using these interventions to offer critique and commentary Additionally the contributions consider the impact of political change on ways in which an inherited commemorative landscape is interpreted and negotiated Questions considered by the contributions include How might new monuments be shaped and how might they function differently from those of the past Is there a place for portraiture in the contemporary commemorative landscape Should commemorative monuments be envisaged as permanent fixtures or are temporary approaches more viable How effectively have artists disrupted the meanings of historical monuments and sites through installation performance video and other media How has political change played out at historical sites affecting how commemorative monuments from prior dispensations are understood in the 2020s This collection will be of value to researchers in Art History Visual Studies and Heritage Studies as well as scholars in all disciplines and fields who are interested in public art public memory and the politics of commemoration Josef Albers, Late Modernism, and Pedagogic Form Jeffrey Saletnik, 2022-10-13 An incisive analysis of the pedagogy of influential artist and teacher Josef Albers An extraordinary teacher whose influence continues today Josef Albers helped shape the Bauhaus school in Germany and established the art and design programs at Black Mountain College in North Carolina and Yale University His books about color theory have informed generations and his artworks are included in the canon of high modernist non representational art The pedagogy Albers developed was a dynamic approach to teaching that transcended the modernist agendas and cultivated a material way of thinking among his students With this book Jeffrey Saletnik explores the origins of Albers s teaching practices and their significance in conveying attitudes about form material and sensory understanding to artists Eva Hesse and Richard Serra He demonstrates how pedagogy is a framework that establishes the possibility for artistic discourse and how the methods through which artists learn are manifested in their individual practices Tracing through lines from Albers s training in German educational traditions to his influence on American postwar art Josef Albers Late Modernism and Pedagogic Form positions Albers s pedagogy as central to the life of modernism Eye of the Sixties Judith E. Stein, 2024-05-01 An evocative portrait of one of the most influential and enigmatic American art dealers of the 1960s Barbara Rose The New York Times In 1959 Richard Bellamy was a witty poetry loving beatnik on the fringe of the New York art world By 1965 he was representing Mark di

Suvero had been the first to show Andy Warhol's pop art and had introduced the new genre of installation art. An eccentric art dealer and founder of the Green Gallery on Fifty Seventh Street, Bellamy helped discover many of the innovative successors to the abstract expressionists including Claes Oldenburg, James Rosenquist, Donald Judd, Dan Flavin, Walter de Maria, and many others. But uninterested in anything more than showing the artists he loved, Bellamy slowly slid into obscurity while fellow dealers such as Leo Castelli and Sidney Janis capitalized on the stars he helped find. Based on decades of research and on hundreds of interviews with Bellamy's artists, friends, colleagues, and lovers, Judith E. Stein's Eye of the Sixties rescues the legacy of the elusive art dealer and tells the story of a counterculture that became the mainstream. Ranging from the Beat orbits of Provincetown to white glove events like Guggenheim's opening gala from Norman Mailer's parties to historic downtown Happenings, Richard Bellamy's story is a remarkable window on the art of the twentieth century and the making of a generation's aesthetic. Judith E. Stein's engrossing, impressively researched, consistently readable, and often entertaining tale restores a crucial figure to his rightful place in the annals of postwar American art. Lilly Wei, Art in America. By using Bellamy's unlikely ascent as a prism, Ms. Stein brings to vibrant life a corner of the culture that was as outrageous as it was visually revolutionary. Ann Landi, The Wall Street Journal. A man of shrewd and impeccable taste, Bellamy's role in promoting the often misunderstood art of abstract expressionism, pop, and minimalism was profound. This is an endearing and illuminating work of biography. A shadowy figure of the 1960s art world is gloriously revealed. Kirkus Reviews.

Performance Drawing Maryclare Foá, Jane Grisewood, Birgitta Hosea, Carali McCall, 2020-09-03. What is performance drawing? When does a drawing turn into a performance? Is the act of drawing in itself a performative process, whether a viewer is present or not? Through conversation, interviews, and essays, the authors illuminate these questions and what it might mean to perform and what it might mean to draw in a diverse and expressive contemporary practice since 1945. The term performance drawing first appeared in the subtitle of Catherine de Zegher's Drawing Papers 20: Performance Drawings, in particular with reference to Alison Knowles and Elena del Rivero. In this book, it is used as a trope and a thread of thinking to describe a process dedicated to broadening the field of drawing through resourceful practices and cross-disciplinary influence. Featuring a wide range of international artists, this book presents pioneering practitioners alongside current and emerging artists. The combination of experiences and disciplines in the expanded field has established a vibrant art movement that has been progressively burgeoning in the last few years. The Introduction contextualises the background and identifies contemporary approaches to performance drawing. As a way to embrace the different voices and various lenses in producing this book, the authors combine individual perspectives and critical methodology in the five chapters. While embedded in ephemerality and immediacy, the themes encompass body and energy, time and motion, light and space, imagined and observed, demonstrating how drawing can act as a performative tool. The dynamic interaction leads to a collective understanding of the term performance drawing and addresses the key developments and future directions of this applied drawing process Space and Time in Artistic Practice and Aesthetics Sarah Lippert, 2017-06-30 When the Enlightenment thinker Gotthold Ephraim Lessing wrote his treatise Laocoön: An Essay on the Limits of Painting and Poetry in 1766 he outlined the strengths and weaknesses of each art. Painting was assigned to the realm of space, poetry to the realm of time. Space and Time in Artistic Practice and Aesthetics explores how artists since the eighteenth century up to the present day have grappled with the consequences of Lessing's theory and those that it spawned. As the book reveals, many artists have been and continue to be influenced by Lessing-like theories which have percolated into the art education and art criticism. Artists from Jean Raoux to Willem de Kooning and Francis Bacon and art critics such as Clement Greenberg have felt the weight of Lessing's theories in their modes of creation, whether consciously or not. Should we sound the death knell for the theories of Lessing and his kind? Or will conceptions of temporality, spatiality and artistic competition continue to unfold? This book, the first to consider how Lessing's writings connect to visual art's production, brings these questions to the fore.

Subjectivity and Selfhood in Chinese Philosophy Kai Marchal, Ellie Hua Wang, 2025-10-01 Human beings have always been concerned with fundamental questions about their selves, including the deeply personal nature of human experience, the persistence of the self over time, the relation between mind and body and the interdependence between self and community. The goal of this volume is to rethink these questions against the backdrop of the Chinese philosophical traditions covering the ideas of major thinkers from Classical to late imperial China, with a particular focus on the fact that human experience is necessarily characterized by the first person perspective. The contributors to this volume employ different methods: historical, comparative, phenomenological, but they all aim at bringing the rich resources of Chinese philosophy to life in our global present.

Polyrhythmicity in Language, Music and Society Richard Andrews, 2021-06-14 This book addresses the complex time relations that occur in some types of jazz and classical music as well as in the novel, plays and poetry. It discusses these multiple levels of rhythm from a social science as well as an arts and humanities perspective. Building on his ground-breaking work in Reframing Literacy: A Prosody of Free Verse and Multimodality, Poetry and Poetics, the author explores the world of multiple or poly-rhythms in music, literature and the social sciences. He reveals that multi-layered rhythms are uncommon and little researched. Nevertheless, they are important to the experience of art and social situations, not least because they link physicality to feeling and to decision-making, timing as well as to aesthetic experience. Whereas most poly-rhythmic relations are felt unconsciously, this book reveals the complex patterning that underpins the structures of feeling and of experience.

Routledge Handbook of Interdisciplinary Research Methods Celia Lury, Rachel Fensham, Alexandra Heller-Nicholas, Sybille Lammes, Angela Last, Mike Michael, Emma Uprichard, 2018-07-06 The landscape of contemporary research is characterized by growing interdisciplinarity and disciplinary boundaries are blurring faster than ever. Yet while interdisciplinary methods and methodological innovation in general are often presented as the holy grail of research, there are few examples or discussions of their development and behaviour in the field. This Routledge Handbook of

Interdisciplinary Research presents a bold intervention by showcasing a diversity of stimulating approaches Over 50 experienced researchers illustrate the challenges but also the rewards of doing and representing interdisciplinary research through their own methodological developments Featured projects cover a variety of scales and topics from small art science collaborations to the big data of mass observations Each section is dedicated to an aspect of data handling from collection classification validation to communication to research audiences Most importantly Interdisciplinary Methods presents a distinctive approach through its focus on knowledge as process defamiliarising and reworking familiar practices such as experimenting archiving observing prototyping or translating

Wages Against Artwork Leigh Claire La

Berge, 2019-08-23 The last twenty years have seen a rise in the production circulation and criticism of new forms of socially engaged art aimed at achieving social justice and economic equality In Wages Against Artwork Leigh Claire La Berge shows how socially engaged art responds to and critiques what she calls decommodified labor the slow diminishment of wages alongside an increase in the demands of work Outlining the ways in which socially engaged artists relate to work labor and wages La Berge examines how artists and organizers create institutions to address their own and others financial precarity why the increasing role of animals and children in contemporary art points to the turn away from paid labor and how the expansion of MFA programs and student debt helps create the conditions for decommodified labor In showing how socially engaged art operates within and against the need to be paid for work La Berge offers a new theorization of the relationship between art and contemporary capitalism
