Playing by Ear and the Tip of the Tongue Reuven Tsur, 2012-11-07 In our everyday life we are flooded by a pandemonium of information which consciousness organizes into more easily manageable phonetic and semantic categories In poetry reading however the total effect of a poem is not only obtained by some of these categories but also by precategorical information for which there is a growing body of empirical evidence of its psychological reality In the Tip of the Tongue phenomenon a great amount of diffuse precategorical information is present but fails to grow together into a compact word generating a feeling of some dense undifferentiated mass Poetic language typically exploits such precategorical information for its effects By way of theoretical considerations and close readings this book explores the semantic and phonetic strategies by which a text may increase or decrease the impact of such information It investigates the conditions that boost or inhibit overtone fusion in rhyme and alliteration By seeking empirical evidence for the claims he makes in different fields such as music art literature linguistics experiments in the speech laboratory the author provides ample and sound examples ambiguity intended in an almost conversational tone which makes us really anticipate reading each new chapter
