Public Safety Officers' Benefits Program

History

The Public Safety Officers' Benefits (PSOBs) Act (42 U.S.C. 1776, et seq.) was enacted in 1976 to assist in the recruitment and retention of law enforcement officers and firefighters. Specifically, Congress was concerned that the benefits inherent in law enforcement and fire suppression and the low level of state and local death benefits might discourage qualified individuals from seeking careers in these fields, thus hampering the ability of communities to provide for public safety.

The PSOB Act was designed to offer peace of mind to men and women seeking careers in public safety and to make a strong statement about the value an American society places on the contributions of those who serve their communities in potentially dangerous circumstances.

The resultant PSOB Program, which is administered by the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA), presents a unique opportunity for the U.S. Department of Justice, federal, state, and local public safety agencies, and national public safety organizations to become involved in

PSOB Service Standards Commitment

The mission of the PSOB staff is to assist public safety officers, their agencies, and their families before, during, and after a tragedy occurs. Three core values guide our daily operations and measure our performance. They are:

- ❑ We will respond rapidly and accurately to PSOB death and disability benefits claims.
- ❑ We will be humane in our support of public safety officers, their agencies, and their families.
- ❑ We will seek and pursue opportunities to expand our assistance to the public safety field.

To improve our response time, we continuously assess our allocation of staff and organizational processes. To ensure accuracy, we will use medical/legal experts and independent legal analyses from outside the PSOB Program.

To provide our services in the most sensitive and professional manner, PSOB staff receive training on key issues associated with grief, critical incident stress, and posttraumatic stress disorder. We also solicit and use information provided to us on the tone and impact of our verbal and written communication with the public safety field.

One example of the PSOB Program giving more to the field is a series of regional training sessions conducted to help law enforcement agencies prepare for the loss of an officer. It is essential that all public safety agencies be prepared to effectively assist the family, fellow officers, and the community to move forward in the aftermath of a tragedy.

Our commitment to support the public safety community has never been stronger, and it will continue to grow.
