PLANS FOR ROUND TWO OF
BERKSHIRE POND
HOCKEY CLASSIC
ARE WELL UNDERWAY

The Berkshire Pond Hockey Classic is an exhilarating annual event that celebrates the pure essence of hockey. This tournament embraces the elements: a frozen pond surrounded by snow-covered hills that ring with the impassioned shouts of players and spectators alike; a chance to witness thrilling games that harken back to the sport's roots.

It's this experience that inspired tournament founder Alex Regen to run with this idea. "There's just a freedom that you feel, something so elemental to being on a frozen pond," he says. "The mountains are in the background; there might be a bald eagle. There's this crisp silence, fresh air, and the camaraderie of other players. It's something very nostalgic."

That was the plan back in January of 2023. But Berkshire weather can have a way of shifting the most thought-out plans, and last winter was no exception. Plan A turned to Plan B, which turned to Plan C, and the lively game of pond hockey was set up in Berkshire School's indoor rink in Sheffield. Perseverance paid off, and oh, what fun was had by all! It came down to the determination of one person whose love for hockey began as a young boy and never diminished.

Growing up in New Jersey, Alex's family frequented a cabin on Lake Buel in Monterey from the time he was a year old. It was there that his dad taught him to skate. "My love of the sport really started here in the Berkshires," he says. Alex would go on to play high school, college, and league hockey. Now a start-up executive for various media companies, he still spends time at his childhood lake. It was there that a chance conversation with a new neighbor—who happened to be a former hockey player—started a series of events that would turn out to be serendipitous. The conversation inspired Alex to inquire about the possibility of holding a tournament on the pond. Emailing his query to the Monterey Parks and Recreation Committee, he received an enthusiastic reply from committee member and former team dentist to the NHL, Hartford Whalers, Tom Menz. Alex and Tom would meet up to discuss plans at the Great Barrington Bagel Company, only to have its owner, Bob Clemo, a hockey player himself, sign up to be the tournament's first sponsor. "The more I started talking to people about this idea of a tournament, it's like people started coming out of the woodwork, and I kind of uncovered that we lived in this type of 'Mystery, Alaska' hockey community in the Berkshires," says Alex.

After securing a grant through the Berkshire Bank Foundation, fortuitous moments continued to snowball as the tournament gained momentum. Local hockey players clamored to sign for a team. "It got to the point where I was able to quite easily get 16 teams," says Alex. "It just seemed like everyone knew someone who played hockey." Event sponsors began to pile up, too.

Alex reflects on this groundswell of support. "My dad passed away five years ago, and his favorite place in the world was the Berkshires. He just loved it up here, and I just feel like he had something to do with it. Every single obstacle was able to be overcome, and that brought a lot of purpose to this, to be able to do something for the Berkshire community."

Cut to January 2023. With 16 coed teams confirmed for play and Roberto's Pizza and ExtraSpecialTeas set to serve wood-fired pizza and hot beverages lakeside, everything had fallen into place. A couple weeks before the scheduled tournament, though, it was clear from the milder temperatures that Lake Buel was not a viable location. The tournament was shifted to the higher-elevated Benedict Pond in Beartown State Forest in hopes that the ice would freeze deep enough for safe play.

The DCR (Department of Conservation & Recreation) was switching permits for them, the date was changed to February 11, but the weather again wasn't working in their favor. Just when they were about to throw in the

The Puck Starts Here Garth Vaughan, 1996 Want to start a fight Just ask where hockey was invented In The Puck Starts Here Garth Vaughan traces the origin of Canada s great winter game not to Montreal where the first hockey game was played in 1875 not to Kingston where Queen s University and Royal Military College played the first hockey game in 1886 but to Windsor Nova Scotia around 1800 Vaughan is not speculating According to Thomas Chandler Haliburton as early as 1800 the local version of He shoots He scores echoed over Windsor s frozen ponds as the boys of King s College School furiously hit a slice from a stick of stove wood towards the opponents goal with their hurley sticks Soon the youth of Halifax and Dartmouth and the soldiers in the garrisons took up the new sport By century s end hockey had spread across Canada and Lord Stanley had donated his famous cup The Puck Starts Here begins with hockey s origin but Vaughan goes on to show how early equipment developed into the recognizably modern gear of the 1930s He also explains that although the Mi kmaq of Nova Scotia made the best hornbeam hockey sticks they were not welcome on town teams neither were Blacks or women So they started their own hockey leagues which were going strong by 1900 This easy to read book is illustrated with over 200 pictures engravings and paintings from the early 1800s archival and press photos snapshots and advertisements The Puck Starts Here makes thrilling reading for every hockey enthusiast A retired surgeon and a native of Windsor Garth Vaughan has lived and breathed hockey since boyhood He found more than enough material in libraries in Nova Scotia at Harvard at Queen s University and Royal Military College and in the National Archives of Canada to prove that his hometown is truly the source of Canada s winter obsession
